

Public Broadcasting recently aired a program that even-handedly reviewed the background of both major candidates for the presidency. This is an example of responsible broadcasting. Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to pre-empt prime time programming just before a national election to air a blatant one-sided political program, Stolen Honor, is an abuse of the public airways and an example of the potential dangers of media consolidation. Claiming that it is news broadcasting is an obvious sham.

This action by Sinclair owned stations is a demonstration of why media ownership rules need to be tightened. His licenses should not be routinely renewed. Thank you.
